

Monday, June 18, 2007

Contributor: Ageless in Los Angeles

Read: More of My Posts

Kick Up Your Heels With The Artemis Heel Smoother This Summer

Rate this blog post:

This Thursday, June 21st is the official first day of summer, and the longest day of the year! Anyone else out there need to do some serious rejuvenation on their feet before slipping them into flip-flops and sandals, revealing them for the world to see?

Artemis Woman Heel Smoother is a foot's best friend. It's a handheld, battery operated device that is like a pumice stone on steroids. My dry, cracking heels were very happy when I whizzed up this tool. You have the option of attaching two interchangeable DuraCrystal tips, which are both painless as they remove dead skin. The thinner of the two tips is for toes and cuticles, and the larger tip is for heels. Be sure to start off on the "low" setting, as it was plenty powerful for my polishing needs.

After you use the Heel Smoother, slather on Artemis Woman's Topaz Foot Butter, which moisturizes the fresh skin on your feet and also smells divine, given its blend of lemon, tea tree oil and bergamot. Having these products at my tiptoes makes me wonder when I'll ever need to go back into a salon for a professional pedicure.

Kelly Ripa, who is always running from place to place keeping "Regis and Kelly" viewers and her family on their toes, uses Artemis products to keep her feet as smooth as her witty banter. It's nice to know that even A-list stars sometimes take their beauty regimen into their own hands.

Artemis products are available at Target, Wal-Mart, The Sharper Image, Ulta, amazon.com and www.artemiswoman.com. These products are affordable, so you'll have plenty of money to spend on some new sandals to show off your feet!